We at PacKay Productions remember what family TV was like in the good old 1980s--crazy neighbors, ridiculously catchy jingles, fuzzy monsters--and boy, do we miss it!

So...we brought it ALL back.

[Without the crimped hair, mullets and acid-washed jeans.
You're welcome.]

See, once upon a time, parents could sit down with their kids and not just tolerate what was on TV...but enjoy it right along with them!

“Family programming” used to mean something, and our goal is to bring that whole wonderful genre roaring back to life.

As a grassroots company that first sprang to life in an underground workshop, PacKay Productions serves up old school the only way we know how.

It's time to return to the best parts of your childhood: the long nights in front of TGIF, the days when MTV was the coolest...and perhaps a magical joy ride or two in your trusty DeLorean?

Because, where we're going...

WE DON'T NEED ROADS.

PITCH

When grown-up '80s-kid Jen Smiley moves in next door to a wonderfully weird puppet family, she finds magic (and maybe even love) in the last place she'd ever expect: Jersey.

PREMISE

Ready for her Broadway star to launch, '80s-kid Jen Smiley leaves her home in Durango, Colorado and lands in...

...New Jersey?

Ah well...close enough.

Although her struggle for a career is frustrating, she feels more welcome than she'd ever imagined when she moves next door to a...

rather unique family!

Rudy Monster has a literal full house--a menagerie of crazy characters, ranging from a nerdy, basement-dwelling sheep to a mischievous baby bunny.

While many in town consider the house on the hill in Hackensack to be pretty strange, to Jen, it's just like being back with her own family.

Weird is wonderful--and families come in all shapes and sizes!
